Any of the above sounds can be mixed together on one track or any particular range of an instrument can be inserted on any part of the keyboard. (See keyboard chart attached on how this can be achieved). In our experience some most interesting effects have been achieved by mixing together instruments that would not normally be played together in this particular manner. For instance, a mixture of Fender Rhodes, jangle piano and mandolin, if played on the keyboard gives a Harpsichord effect but if the keys are held down, the mandolins will follow on. This is only one example of the many combinations which are available.

Customers may supply their own recordings on $\frac{1}{4}$ " tape at a tape speed of 15 i.p.s. (38 cms per sec.) or $7\frac{1}{2}$ i.p.s. (19 cms per sec.) which can be transferred on to the special Mellotron tape and also a $\frac{1}{4}$ " conversion kit is available for customers wishing to experiment with their own sound.

Normally Mellotron tapes are supplied on a special tape frame, ready to be inserted into the Mellotron. Owners of Mellotron may wish to replace tapes on their existing tape frame and, in these circumstances, it is possible for the tapes to be supplied on small spools and with a cue mark to show where the tape should be positioned, above the replay head. Details on fitting tapes are described in the Owner's manual.

The Mellotron can be very effective in instantly replaying musical passages. i.e. opening themes, jingles etc.
